The gentle rolling hills of Fairview, deemed one of the best kept secrets of Collin County, will be the latest home to another stunning LandPlan development. Chamberlain Place delivers exactly what homebuyers have come to expect from a LandPlan community- neighborhoods set among breathtaking scenery, convenient locations to accommodate any busy lifestyle that still feel miles and miles away from the city, and custom homes crafted by a trusted team of talented architects.

The Town of Fairview is located in the north-east corner of the Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex, between SH 121 and US 75, south of McKinney. "Living on a one acre lot in a rural setting, yet mere minutes from the shopping and dining at The Villages of Fairview and The Village of Allen, and a short drive from the employment centers at LBJ/US 75 and Tollway/121 provides homeowners the best of both worlds," stated Bruce Smith, President of Residential Development.

Chamberlain Place is currently zoned for McGowen Elementary School, Faubion Middle School, and McKinney High School in the highly sought after McKinney School District. One of the fastest growing districts in Texas, McKinney ISD enrolls more than 24,500 students and is consistently awarded for academic achievements.

The community will be filled with 45

generously landscaped one acre or larger lots, many of which will back up to the picturesque Sloan Creek or Barksdale Creek. "The homes in Chamberlain Place will be built by a hand picked team of trusted and immensely talented custom builders," added Smith, "and are sure to exceed the expectations of every homeowner."

Lot prices begin at $240,000. For more information please visit landplan.net/chamberlain-place. Questions can be directed to Bruce Smith, President of Residential Development, at (214)618-3802 or bruce@landplan.net.
